Old Business:

1. Tribal Elections – POA

After review of the Tribal Constitution; the Council was in unanimous agreement the Constitution does not require legal representative to bring the person for whom they are the legal power of attorney to the elections. Discussion occurred regarding past requirements by past administration.

Betty Gardiner indicated that CLPVC cannot infringe on people’s rights with regards to power of attorney, as CLPVC does not have authority to do so.

It was the consensus of the Council that legal representatives will not be required by CLPVC to bring the person they are legally responsible through power of attorney (POA) to elections, as it’s the understanding of the Council that the POA has the legal right to vote on their behalf.

Information:
